FATAL WRECK.

John Billups, Formerly of Louisa,
Instantly Killed.

About one o'clock last Saturday morning a collision on the B. O. & S. W. railroad occurred near Pleasant Plain, O., whereby John Billups, born and reared in this place, met an untimely death. He had been a brakeman on the road a good while, and by good conduct and attention to business had just been made a freight conductor. He had been ordered to Cincinnati to bring out a train, and was on his way from his home in Chillicothe to the former city, when the accident happened, which ended his life. He was sitting in a coach when the train he was on and a fast passenger train collided near Pleasant Plain, several coaches of them, being thrown over an embankment, and poor Billups was instantly killed.

The sad news was telegraphed to Louisa and the mournful intelligence was imparted as gently as possible to his widowed mother. On Sunday afternoon the body, accompanied by the widow, Mr. and Mrs. James Billups and George Billups arrived in the city, and on Monday morning, followed by a large number of relatives and friends, all that was mortal of John Billups was buried in Pine Hill Cemetery. Brief and appropriate religious services, conducted by Rev. Mr. Elsa, of the M. E. Church, assisted by Rev. O. F. Williams, of the M. E. Church South, had been held at the residence of Mrs. Nancy Billups.

John Billups was the youngest son of the late "Samp" and Mrs. Nancy Billups. He married Miss Dora Johnson, a most estimable young lady of Johnson county, and a member of one of its best families. A beautiful girl baby, about four months old, is the result of the union. The dead boy was doing well in his calling as a railroad man, sober and saving in his habits, and it seems hard that just when all looked so favorable he should be stricken down. His aged mother and her family have the sympathy of all who know them.

Broke A Bone.

While the Rev. Sam Bettus, the cowboy preacher, was making a speech at Beckley, in the interests of the Democratic ticket he attacked Wm. R. Campbell, the Sheriff of Raleigh county, and accused him of high crimes and misdemeanors. The Sheriff was in the audience and, angered by the accusations, he approached the platform and threw the preacher to the floor and broke his collar bone.

An Aged Woman Dead.

On last Tuesday Mrs. Julia Evans, the venerable widow of Edwin Evans, died at the residence of her son Charles, near Potter. Mrs. Evans had been infirm on account of old age and its incidentills for a long time. She is survived by James, Charles and W. T. Evans, and leaves numerous descendants. Misses Lizzie and Vessie Ward, attended the funeral, which occurred Wednesday and which was conducted by the Rev. H. B. Hewlett.

Sam B. Peters, a prominent and well known young man of Bluefield, W. Va., and Mrs. Sadie Thornbury, were united in marriage in Cadettsburg Saturday morning. Miss Thornbury is one of the most beautiful young women of the Big Sandy valley, a daughter of Dr. Thornbury, of Dunlavy, W. Va., and a cousin to L. B. Williams of Cadettsburg.

N. D. Ends, of Cadettsburg, is unfortunate in the matter of accidents. He was out of business several months because of a dislocated shoulder, sustained near Yatesville, and now he is laid up with a sprained ankle. He travels — for a hardware house, and is well known here.

The non-resident relatives who attended the funeral of John Billups were Mr. and Mrs. James Billups, George Billups, Chillicothe; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Billups, Williamson; R. S. Billups, Washington; Mrs. Enslow, Mrs. Owen Garred and Miss Hazel Bow, Huntington; and Mrs. George McClure, Gallup.

Scored A Triumph.

On last Friday at the Louisa Opera House a large and appreciative audience witnessed the debut of Miss Mae Stafford and Miss Kate Freese in song and reading. Nothing finer along these artistic lines has been presented to Louisa, and we feel proud when we remember that both the young ladies are natives of our own Big Sandy—one a Louisa girl, and the other, of whom we are also greatly "stuck up," a native of our neighbor, the county of Johnson. From the opening member of the program to the fitting finale the applause was strong and hearty. The audience was not inclined to "play favorites," as the race folks have it, but gave to each such a welcome as must have been warming to her heart. Miss Freese's splendid voice, with its wealth of sweetness and strength, was never heard to better advantage, and she and her auditors appreciate the value of the faultless piano accompaniment, played by Mrs. P. S. Bond.

Our people had been anxiously awaiting the public appearance of Miss Stafford. The had satisfactory evidence of her ability as a teacher of her art, and her public recital was ample proof of her ability. In her profession. Her recital showed conclusively what native ability, careful training and intense application can do. Take that scene from The Sign of The Cross, for instance. Memory, dramatic comprehension and a good "stage presence" made it one of the young lady's best efforts.

Miss Stafford and Miss Freese have abundant natural attractions. Both were charmingly gowned, easy in manner, not a bit embarrassed, and as each appeared on the fern-decked stage she made a very attractive picture. The NEWS and the public congratulate them on the complete success achieved last Friday evening.

Services at M. E. Church South.

Regular services as follows: (We use central standard time.)

Prayer Meeting, each Wednesday at 6:30 p. m.

Sabbath School, each Sabbath at 9 a. m.

Preaching each Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. and at 6:30 p. m.

You are cordially invited to attend all these services. Strangers in the town specially invited to worship with us. "Come thou with us and we will do thee good, for the Lord has spoken good concerning Israel."

O. F. Williams, Pastor.

Then and Now.

"Hello, Central!" was first heard in 1878. To-day the exchanges are numbered by the thousands, and the telephones by the million. Communication by the telephone was limited to a few thousand feet. Now, conversation can be carried on by persons 1,600 miles apart. Soon long-distance lines will span the continent; and oceanic telephony will be a common place of mercantile routine.

Gen. Alexander Mackenzie, Chief of Engineers, has reported to the Secretary of War and the amount which can be profitably expended during the next fiscal year in improving Big Sandy river and Levisa and Tug forks, West Virginia and Kentucky, is $264,300. He also recommends that $174,000 be appropriated for Kentucky river.

Hon. Carmi Thompson, of Ironton, Speaker of the Ohio Legislature, was elected Attorney General at the recent election. As was set forth somewhat at length in these columns some months ago Mr. Thompson was born on Mill creek, a few miles from Fort Gay, and dug coal in his youth. He is a cousin of Mrs. R. L. Vinson.

The road leading to Pine Hill cemetery has been thoroughly repaired, and put into better condition than it has been for several years. The work was done under the supervision of R. A. Stone, and the expense was paid by private subscription.

Charley Holbrook, wife and two pretty children, were in Louisa Monday, on their way to Lexington their new home. Charley, who is a popular shoe man, makes Lexington his home now because it offers superior facilities for his business.

ELECTION COMMENT.

Some Caustic and Some Otherwise—Both Sides Heard From.

THE SNOW.

The snow, the snow,
The beautiful snow,
Fell on and buried
That dear Kehoe.

You first, my dear Bennett,
Before you, my dear Kehoe,
I beg of you to accept the certificate by dear Bennett.

As you will by dear Kehoe.

It was a snow storm of ballots.

From the mouth of Big Sandy to the junction of Stoner and Hinkson the dogged republicans carried everything before them. They were up early and voted often, so often in fact that it gives one a pain. They weren't satisfied with a nice nose finish. They took the lead from the start and increased their advantage until they came under the wire in a jog with the democrats scattered from the head to the stretch to the half-mile pole.

The majority? Oh, well, it's a shame to tell it. We don't know anywhere from 900 to 1,000.

HARRISON COUNTY

Did not distinguish herself for loyalty and enthusiasm. Something over five hundred democrats failed to catch the voting fever. They didn't go to the polls or send proxies.

The democratic party can hardly survive another State primary.

Now let us turn to peaceful pursuits. Isn't this beautiful weather?

A temperance map recently published in the daily papers proves conclusively that Kentucky is rapidly drying up. We hope the politicians will dry up, too.

Now, that it is all over, those individuals who sought political advantage by dragging Mr. Kehoe's religious affiliations into the campaign can lay their narrow little minds to rest until the next election.—Cynthia Anna Dem.

A "yellow" young fellow named Hearst,

Was quite unprepared for the worst,

So when it befell,

He cried sadly, "Oh, hell!"

And that's not the worst that he curst.

Cheers for the victor, tears for the vanquished. Sour, indeed, is the soul of the man who does not turn the moist eye of sympathy upon the candidate who expected to cut a melon, but merely caught a lesson.

Jim Kehoe is such a good banker, and such a clever fellow, that his friends just concluded to keep him at home—where they can borrow money from him.—Maysville Ledger.

In Mr. Kehoe's defeat for Congress, the people of the Ninth district are the real losers.—Maysville Bulletin.

Hon. John W. Langley may not have been scared, but he certainly ran like the big cabin.

Sam Marcus, aged about 27 years, died in Louisa Wednesday of typhoid fever. He had been absent from this place and came home sick. His death occurred about two weeks after. He was a son of Josiah Marcus, and was a quiet, industrious young man.

Clint Ewing, a well known colored man, died in Fort Gay Monday of injuries received on the N. and W., a few weeks ago. He was sent him shortly after he was hurt, with a foot bad condition. Gangrene set in, followed by lockjaw, and death was the result.

Harold French and George Akers, two young men who have been confined in the county jail at Ironton for several weeks past on charges of burglarizing a number of box cars, made their escape, Tuesday night. Akers was formerly from near Louisa.

McFarland-Wellman.

The attractive new home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Helms on Merriweather avenue was the scene of Halloween evening of one of the prettiest weddings of the season, uniting the lives of their niece, Dixie Wellman, and A. F. McFarland, the impressive ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal church being said by the Rev. Mr. Griffin in the presence of a small circle of relatives. The bride made a charming picture in a gown of pearl gray silk and lace. This marriage is a consummation of a romance of rare interest and was a romance of rare interest, and was an entire surprise even to intimate friends. After the ceremony and a shower of good wishes, Mr. and Mrs. McFarland left by way of New Orleans and the Southwest to make their home in Los Angeles, Cal.—Memphis Evening Scimitar.

Mrs. McFarland was Miss Dixie Wellman, daughter of L. B. and Minnie Goff Wellman. She visited Louisa in 1903 and made many friends. She is a granddaughter of the late Felix W. Goff, and her relatives in this section are members by the score.

Popular in Louisa.

Miss Lena Stewart, of Kenova, who recently went to Rialto, Cal., was married on last Monday to Mr. George Woods, of that place, whom she met while visiting her aunt in Rialto several years ago. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stewart, of Kenova, and is a charming girl who has numerous friends, in this city, where she was a frequent visitor of the family of her aunt, Mrs. Cynthia Stewart.

Mr. Woods is an orange grower and is quite well-to-do.

At Lock No. 1, Catlettsburg.

An accident happened at the Catlettsburg Lock last Saturday which miraculously resulted in only light injuries to the victim. Sherman Vanhorn of Adeline, Ky., one of the employees of the Baker Contract Co., was on the coffer dam and started to step off when one of the boards in the frame work gave away and let Vanhorn fall down between the railings. Luckily only a few cuts and bruises, but nothing serious were the result and Vanhorn is back at work again.

CARD OF THANKS.

We take this method of thanking our many friends and neighbors for the kindness which they so willingly bestrode on us in one of the saddest and most heart sore moments that ever befell our family. Words cannot express our gratitude and thanks to the people who landed us a loving heart and helping hand to the bereaved family during the illness and death of a dear husband and father, and we wish to offer our heartfelt thanks to one and all.

Mrs. James Nelson and family.

The steam shovel which is stationed at Lockwood caught on fire last Monday night and the wood work was completely destroyed. It is not known how the fire started as it occurred during the absence of the night watchman George Gillespie, of Hampton City, who for some reason left his post of duty. It is hoped however, that the shovel can be repaired in a few days as it gives occupation to about a hundred men who must of necessity remain idle until the engine is returned.

Mrs. Fannie Stringfellow and children have moved here from Thelma, Johnson county, and will occupy the cottage adjoining the Junior Order Hall. Her father, Mr. Zach Spencer, will live with her.

The new pastor of the M. E. Church, Rev. Mr. Elsa, preached to his congregation last Sunday. He made a good impression. Mr. Elsa will bring his family to Louisa as soon as practicable.

The Gossip Club met last Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Robert Bickel. Mrs. Bickel is a charming entertainer, and on the day named she was equal to the occasion.

Misses Nellie Conley, Leona Gunnell, Addie Glukerson, Martha Roberts and many other schoolmaids were in Louisa Saturday, receiving their per centage of pay.

PERT PARAGRAPHS

Picked Up At Pike, Paint and Prestonsburg.

There were no votes cast for the city officials of Paintsville as the ballots were misplaced.

The oldest pensioner in Johnson county is "Aunt Judy" Davis. She draws a pension for her husband's service in the War of 1862.

Miss Gypsy Diamond of Mahan, W. Va., who has been visiting Miss Mamie Walker, at Paintsville, went to Louisa to visit relatives.

Misses Dr. W. J. Fitzpatrick, of Johnson county, who recently underwent an operation, at Christ's Hospital, in Cincinnati, is at home again greatly improved in health.

Blaine Clarke, of Daniels creek, has succeeded Warren M. Vanhoose as teacher in the Paintsville Graded Free School. Mr. Vanhoose resigned because of ill health.

Prestonsburg, Ky., November 8.—John Hibbits and Miss Rebecca Auxier were united in marriage last week, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Auxier, at East Point.

The vote cast for the candidates for Congress in Floyd county, was as follows: Hopkins, 1,668; Langley, 1,441; Cooper, 30. Hopkins' majority, 464; Hager's majority, 533; Beckman's majority, 390.

There is no provision for an assistant Circuit Judge and Judge Kirk was forced to perform the duties of that office unaided, until a deputy arrived at his home in Paintsville a few days ago. Mother and "deputy" doing well.

At Trace voting precinct, Magoffin county, election day Jack Pinks was shot and killed by Nero Howard. Boyd Miller shot Nero in the jaw, and Dry Gourd Wireman shot Charles Howard, father of Nero Howard. Wireman is Jack Pinks' father-in-law.

Pikeville, November 9.—James Call of Yeager, this county, and a brother of our well known townsmen, John Call, and Miss Pearlie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gillam, were married Wednesday night at the home of the bride's father on College street.

Mr. Hopkins' majority in his home precinct was 176, the largest ever given to any candidate. He also carried Mr. Langley's home precinct by a majority of 33, and reduced two of the largest Republican precincts in the county, their usual majorities being 100 and 125, Langley carrying the largest by a majority of 68, and the other by 22—quite a change.

News reached Prestonsburg that G. M. Hatcher, a prominent citizen of Bonanza, was accidentally shot in the left leg Monday evening, while assisting P. H. Osborn, Jr., Deputy sheriff, in putting up the booths for the primary. Mr. Osborn's pistol fell from his pocket, shooting Mr. Hatcher in the left thigh. He was in great pain all night but was resting well at last reports from his bedside, and it is thought he is not seriously wounded.

Next Sabbath will be the occasion of the 1st quarterly conference of the M. E. Church South. Rev. B. F. Gosling, D. D., who is the present Presiding Elder of the Ashland district, will occupy the pulpit at 10:30 and 6:30. At the conclusion of the morning service the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered.

Saturday and Sunday.

The supply of coal from our local banks does not meet the demand, and wagons return empty every day.

Bolton Adkins, who moved from Greenbrier, W. Va., a short time ago, thought the W. Va. hills had greater attractions than Ky., and moved back last week.

DAVISVILLE.

Large crowd attended church Saturday and Sunday at old Hood.

T. J. Burton went to Louisa last week.

H. F. Banks called on our merchants last week.

Angelina Blanton, of Johnson co., visited relatives at this place Saturday and Sunday.

Important News Gathered from Abroad for the Benefit of Our Readers.

Louisville, Ky., November 8.—As she slept early this morning, Mrs. Jennie Ely's skull was rushed with a hatchet and her throat severed from ear to ear. Sleeping beside her when the deed was committed were two of her six children—an infant, aged 9 months, and a son, Rudolph, 9 years old. Within a few feet of the victim was her daughter Anna, aged 15. In an adjoining room Mr. Ely, husband of the murdered woman, soundly slept.

Anna Ely was awakened by her mother making a gurgling sound. When she reached her mother's side Mrs. Ely was still alive and endeavoring to speak. Anna's screams aroused the household and even the neighbors ran in. Mrs. Ely lived only a few minutes. She was unable to speak.

Falmouth, Ky., Nov. 9.—George Newkirk, a young farmer living four miles from this place, is under arrest.

It is charged that he shot and killed his aunt, Mary Cukendorfer, a woman nearly seventy years old.

She had accused Newkirk of stealing some of her turkeys a few days before, and he resenting the charge, went home, got his shotgun and walked by where his aunt lived. She was standing in her yard and he emptied the contents of both barrels into her body, killing her instantly.

He then came to town and gave himself up to the Sheriff, but says he knows nothing about the shooting.

Reports from the neighborhood said a mob was coming to town to hang him, but the officers hurried him to the Cynthiana jail.

The Jamestown Exposition has been notified that Kentucky's State Building at Jamestown will be a log cabin characteristic of Daniel Boone's day.

The medical fraternity of this State are greatly pleased over the election of Dr. H. Horace Grant, of Louisville, as president of the Mississippi Valley Medical Association.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 9. It is announced here by persons who claim to have authoritative information that Gov. Beckham will not call the Legislature in extraordinary session to deal with the temperance question in Louisville or elsewhere, despite the apparently well-authenticated reports sent out yesterday from Frankfort.

A report has been obtained on about 600 acres four miles south of Owingsville, according to a special from that town. An Eastern syndicate plans to make cement out of clay deposits. The option calls for $40 to $75 an acre.

Denver, Col.—The campaign for new settlers being conducted by the Colorado State Commercial Association is bearing fruit. John T. Burns, Secretary, is in receipt of a letter from an optimistic broker in Kentucky, who seems to have a plan for developing the Blue Grass State. The writer states his desire to enter into negotiations for the removal of 2,000 Kentucky farmers to a tract of fertile Colorado land.

Richmond, Ky., Nov. 8.—While out driving this morning, Mrs. Jennie Little, one of Richmond's most popular girls, was shot by an unknown person and seriously wounded. Miss Little, in company with Mrs. Gibson, was passing out West Main street. When just in front of the home of Judge A. R. Burns, the report of a pistol was heard. At the crack of the gun Miss Little fell over into the lap of Mrs. Gibson. She exclaimed that she was killed, and then became unconscious.

The stand-patters in the House fared very badly as the result of the election. Chairman Payne's vote was greatly reduced in New York; Dalzell, the second man on the committee, had his majority cut down one-half; Grosvenor was defeated in convention, and will not be a member of the new committee; Watson, Curtis and Needham come back with decreased majorities; Babcock was defeated, but that is not a victory for the tariff revisionists, as Babcock has been urging his party for the last five years to reduce some of the schedules. On the other hand, McCleary, of Minnesota, has been forced into retirement. He has been the mainstay of the stand-patters in the House, and during the last two campaigns his tariff speeches have been sent broadcast over the country by the Republican Committee. In addition, Cummins wins in Iowa and the stand-pat Congressmen are all reduced.

There will be three vacancies on the committee to be filled by the Speaker of the next Congress.

The Government Printing Office was not overlooked in the making of the late political campaign, furnishing over 5,000,000 copies, it is said, of congressional speeches for members of both branches of Congress. Work of this character is done at the expense of the party ordering the work and members of both parties have equal privileges, the amount being limited by the desire of the member. A fact not generally known is that any private person may upon presentation of a certified check for the amount of the cost, have printed for his individual use 250 copies of any Government publication, provided the order is given before the press work is completed.

The speeches in most demand are said to have been those on the meat inspection bill and the railroad rate legislation. Pure food agitation and the Philippine tariff came in for a good share of attention, while labor speeches were popular in manufacturing districts. One ex-Senator is said to have ordered 50,000 copies of one of his speeches in relation to labor.

The largest single order is understood to have been for 150,000 copies.

President Roosevelt was in high spirits as he boarded the yacht Mayflower for the beginning of his trip to Panama. "Good-bye, I'm going to see how the ditch is getting along," he shouted to the party gathered on the deck to see him off, as the vessel got under way.

Elder W. P. Lupton, of the Kentucky Journal, doesn't complain that he isn't writing his bare, scrawled manuscript on the following paragraph:

It is computed that this country spent in 1905 $71,000,000 for beer, $26,000,000 for whisky and $96,000,000 for wine, an aggregate for alcohol dinks of $1,324,000,000. The total for tea, coffee and coca was anybody's feelings, but we are con-killing her stepdaughter Elsie under peculiarly revolting circumstances.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 9.—The Fayette County Grand Jury reported to Judge Parker this afternoon and was discharged. The body went fully into the alleged mismanagement of the Eastern Kentucky Asylum and recommended several important changes in the institution. The jury said it believed the physicians now in charge of the asylum were entirely incapable of properly administering the affairs of the institution, and recommended that the number be increased.

The report also said the number of attendants and nurses at the institution should be increased and the pay materially increased. The body recommended that a training school for nurses and attendants be established, and that the Legislature be asked to appropriate sufficient money to build such school.

The investigation was due to the scandal growing out of the recent death of Fred Ketterer, a patient at the asylum, who, it was alleged, was brutally murdered by the attendants.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 10.—The four-year-old daughter of Sam Jett, of Winchester, Edith M. Jett, was burned to death at her home yesterday while burning leaves in the front yard.

Frankfort, Ky., November 9.—Chairman McQuown has called a meeting of the State Executive Committee for Tuesday, November 20, at Frankfort, when it will canvass the returns of the state primary and declare the results in the various races. The official count made in each county today by the county committees will be forwarded here as soon as possible to Chairman McQuown, but the whole will not be summed up till the committee meets.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 10.—Fire in the woman's department of the State penitentiary at 9 o'clock this morning caused a panic among the inmates. A prompt response by the fire department restored quiet, and the fire was extinguished with slight loss and before the arrival of the city fire department.

Thirty-four citizens of Fulton, Ky., have made charges of fraud against election offices in the precinct in that city, alleging that although each cast his vote for N. B. Hays, in the Democratic primary, only eight votes were counted for him in that precinct.

At Rowena, Russell county, Ky., is one of the most peculiar cases known to the medical profession and has baffled the skilled physicians of America, says the Adair County News.

Mr. Herschel Grider, son of a prominent farmer, who lives at the mouth of Indian creek, near Rowena, has been asleep, or in an unconscious condition for twelve or thirteen years.

In conversation with Mr. John McFarland, a substantial citizen of Rowena, and a man whose word is his bond, Mr. Porter McFarland makes the following statement concerning the case:

"I have known Herschel Grider since his childhood, and know that he has been in an unconscious condition, or a stupor, for over twelve years, and his father tells me that during this time consciousness has only returned twice, and then for only a few minutes. The family carry the unconscious man food at the regular hours and place it on a table at his side. If the attendant remains in the room it will not be disturbed, but upon leaving the room and returning in a few minutes the meal will have been consumed."

William J. Bryan, reviewing the results of the last election, sees hope in the situation and says there is a trend toward Democracy.

A ripple was caused at the Capitol by the actions of Representative Pollard, of Nebraska, in turning back to the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House $1,865 of back salary to which he thought he wasn't entitled.

Republican leaders in New York City will make an effort before the Supreme Court to have the ballot boxes opened and a count made of the defective ballots in the race for Lieutenant Governor. They believe such a count will elect Bruce, the Republican candidate, over Chandler.

At Rowena, Russell county, Ky., is one of the most peculiar cases known to the medical profession and has baffled the skilled physicians of America, says the Adair County News.

Mr. Herschel Grider, son of a prominent farmer, who lives at the mouth of Indian creek, near Rowena, has been asleep, or in an unconscious condition for twelve or thirteen years.

In conversation with Mr. John McFarland, a substantial citizen of Rowena, and a man whose word is his bond, Mr. Porter McFarland makes the following statement concerning the case:

"I have known Herschel Grider since his childhood, and know that he has been in an unconscious condition, or a stupor, for over twelve years, and his father tells me that during this time consciousness has only returned twice, and then for only a few minutes. The family carry the unconscious man food at the regular hours and place it on a table at his side. If the attendant remains in the room it will not be disturbed, but upon leaving the room and returning in a few minutes the meal will have been consumed."

RESOLUTIONS

Of Basyville Sunday School, Whereas, God who knoweth and for the past week is able to be out doeth all things that are best for again. His children has been pleased to remove from our midst while yet in the bloom of useful, active womanhood, our Sunday School Superintendent, Mrs. F. R. Bussey, whom nature had richly endowed with all the nobler characteristics of the people among whom she had lived. Her kind, and her purse were never closed to charities and always open to her church and friends. No tribute that we can now pay to her sacred memory will brighten the halo which now surrounds her consecrated and immortal tomb, therefore be it

Resolved, that we, the members of Basyville Sunday School and citizens of the community feel our loss deeply, though we recognize the power and wisdom of our Creator in this affliction, knowing that our loss is her eternal gain.

Resolved, that in this death the Sunday school suffers an irreparable loss; the Epworth League a most valuable and useful member, the church and community a Christian, whose daily walk through life should ever be an example before us.

Resolved that we fondly cherish her memory, and ever strive to emulate her Godly example.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her family as an assurance of our heart-felt sympathy in this, their hour of grief.

Resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the Sunday School record, the minutes of the Epworth League and a copy furnished each of the following papers for publication: Big Sandy News, Sandy Valley Courier, and Western Christian Advocate.

Kentucky-Tennessee Oil Fields.

Special Cor. Manufacturer's Record.

Burkeville, Ky., November 5.—A though rather late in the season for the entrance of new capital, two or three new development concerns have lately been organized to operate in Kentucky's oil and gas fields.

A new territory will be entered in Western Kentucky by the Green River Oil and Development Co., of Morganfield, Ky. This concern, which has just been organized, will drill in sections of Butler county, which has already shown favorable indications of oil and gas. The company was incorporated last week with a capital stock of $50,000, and drilling will start at once. In Knox county W. C. Kennedy and Co., of Bradford, Pa., have purchased several hundred acres of gas territory near Barboursville, and will install a natural-gas system in this city. One well was already drilled on the property purchased, and other holes will be sunk. The system is now being put in. A test of the well already drilled shows a volume of 700,000 cubic feet and a pressure of 270 pounds, sufficient force to carry the gas 70 miles without artificial pressure. The W. C. Kennedy concern has interests valued at over $1,000,000. In upper Kentucky the Central Kentucky Natural Gas Co., will extend operations. This company has headquarters at Lexington. David Main, of Barboursville, has acquired the holdings of the Natural Oil and Development Co., of Chicago, and will drill new wells in Knox county.

Developments in the Kentucky-Tennessee field, after the dull season of the past two months, are assuming greater proportions. A number of new rigs have been put to work, following the opening of new pools, and better results are expected. One of the most important new openings was in Wolfe county, this State, a test well showing the famous green oil in large quantities. The strike, which has created great interest in upper Kentucky, was made by the Mountain Valley Oil Co., of Lexington. It is the first green-oil strike yet made in this State.

Results from October operations in Kentucky-Tennessee divisions were not up to those of the preceding months. Thirty-six wells were completed, including five dry holes. Most of the work was accomplished the latter part of the month. The production of oil slightly exceeded the 10,000-barrel mark.

The market for Kentucky-Tennessee oil is good, but prevailing prices are not satisfactory. The two grades of oil produced command $5 and 55 cents, respectively. These prices have prevailed for six months. At this season prices usually advance, but just now the indications are for a decline, due to the great overproduction of oil throughout the country.

The Standard Oil Co. controls all but a small part of the Kentucky-Tennessee production. In two divisions of Kentucky an independent concern, the Indian Refining Co., of Georgetown, competes in the crude-oil market, paying 88 cents per barrel for the better-grade oil. This concern is conducting a flourishing business.

Alaska Not Remote.

Alaska will read with more or less interest, and no doubt with wrath and indignation, the statement published by Tuesday's Post-Intelligencer that Alaska is an "out-of-the-way locality," and that on the occasion of Gertrude Atherton's recent visit to that territory she undertook the "long and somewhat perilous voyage" to acquire local color for a forthcoming novel.

It has been a long time since anything quite so stupid and silly as the statements printed by the Post-Intelligencer has appeared in a newspaper that ought to know something of the vast and attractive empire of the north. Everybody except the densely ignorant or the "vengefully malicious" knows that Alaska is no longer remote, that it is not an "out-of-the-way locality," and that the journey to our northern possession is in no sense perilous. Indeed, one may visit Alaska with precisely the comfort that he may cross the Pacific or the Atlantic, so quickly have modern improvements and conveniences caught up with the requirements of that wonderful land.

We used to read a great deal about the "land of snow and ice" in those newspapers which were so far from Alaska that they could scarcely help throwing about that land the atmosphere of romance. Home papers are better informed. They know Alaska is a land of flowers. The Post-Intelligencer is without excuse in printing false statements, the effect of which would be to work injury to Alaska, provided one concedes that the Post-Intelligencer has any influence whatever.

Truth is, the cities and towns of Alaska are so far a head of places of double their population in "the States" that there can be no basis of comparison between them; and the vital point is, those cities and towns are no longer remote from Home Circle Column.

A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle.

We sometimes treat strangers more politely and courteously than we do our own dear ones who give their lives for us. "Company manners, table ware and linen" are perhaps not necessary all the time, but what is good for strangers is good for our "loved ones at home."

Sometimes one has more flowers piled on his coffin and grave than he ever had given to him in all his life. We want our flowers while we are living. The dead are past all that. If we would do good let's do it while we are alive to those who are living.

A crust of bread, a pitcher of water, a log cabin and perfect love—there is happiness for you, whether the day be rainy or sunny. It is the heart that makes the home, whether the eye rests on a potato patch or flower garden. The heart makes home precious, and it is the only thing that can. Home is where the heart is.

The bitterest tears shed over graves are for words left unsaid and for deeds left undone. "She never knew that I loved her." "He never knew what he was to me." "I always meant to make more of our friendship." "I did not know what he was to me until he was gone." Such words are the poisoned arrows which cruel death shoots from the door of the sepulcher.

The lady who laughs heartily is a doctor without a diploma. Her face does more good in a sick room than a bushel of powders or a gallon of bitter draughts. People are always glad to see her. Their hands instinctively go half way out to meet her grasp, while they turn involuntarily from the dampy touch of the dyspeptic, who speaks in the groaning key. She laughs you out of your faults, while you never dream of being offended with her; and you never know what a pleasant world you live in until she points out the sunny streaks on her pathway.

We need to remember that success in life is not success in material life alone, but in the social and religious as well. That a man is not practical man who is a merchant, a farmer, a teacher merely; he must also be a citizen, a neighbor, a friend, a son, perhaps a brother, a husband, a father—and most important of all a little child in the garden of a Heavenly King.

The gentle grace of the mother lives in the daughter long after her head is pillow'd in the dust of death; and the fatherly kindness finds its echo in the nobility and courtesy of sons, who come to wear his mantle and to fill his places while on the other hand, from an unhappy, misgoverned and disolute home, go forth persons who shall make other homes miserable, and perpetuate the sourness and sadness the contentions, strife, and railings, which have made their own early lives so wretched and distorted.

HINTS FOR WIVES.

Perchance you think that our husband's disposition is much changed; that he is no longer the sweet-tempered ardent lover he used to be. This may be a mistake. Consider his struggles with the world—his everlasting race with the busy competition of trade. What is it that makes him so eager in the pursuit of gain—so energetic by day, so sleepless by night—but his love of home wife and children, and a dread that their respectability according to the light in which he has conceived it, may be encroached upon by the strife of existence. This is the true secret of that silent care which preys upon the hearts of many men; and true it is, that when love is least apparent, it is nevertheless the active principle which animates the heart, though fears and disappointments make up a cloud which obscures the warmer element. As above the clouds there is a glorious sunshine below are showers and gloom, so with the conduct of man behind the gloom of anxiety there is a bright fountain of high and noble feeling.

Thank of this in those moments when clouds seem to lower upon your domestic peace, and by tempering our conduct lessingly, the gloom will soon pass away and warmth and brightness take its place.

You Should Know ALUM'S WORST WORK

Some Mothers, unconscious of the injurious effects of Alum, are daily giving it to their Children by the use of so-called Cheap Baking Powder.

What Mother would do so if she only knew?

Alum's Worst Work is its early harmful influence on the child's digestive organs. Positively Never, should Children of tender years be required to eat it in their food.

THE FARM.

CABBAGE FOR WINTER.

In storing cabbage for winter a dry spot of ground must be selected, possible one that is naturally well drained, but avoid a hillside. With a large plow make a trench six to eight inches deep going and returning in the same furrow and finishing with a shovel, that is, cleaning out the small ridge in the center which has been left by the plow. On a dry day the cabbage is pulled and turned upside down and allowed to drain for an hour or so.

Place the cabbage in the trench close together with the roots up. Then plow several furrows against the cabbage on either side and finish with a shovel, putting on about six inches of dirt. When the ground has frozen two or three inches cover with corn-stalks to the depth of a foot. If the cabbage shows any signs of decay it is time ill-spent to bury it; also, in seasons when the rainfall has been excessive during growing season, cabbage will keep but a short time and should not be buried.—American Agriculturist.

THE KICKING COW.

Some of Job's patience may have come of experience in handling a kicking cow, camel, goat or whatever animal furnished the milk supply for the family. Certainly a kicking cow is trying, if not an abomination. Sometimes she is such a good milk and butter animal that we hesitate to dispose of her. If the reader has one, he might consider with profit and pleasure the following from Hoard's Dairyman:

"We read of all sorts of devices to cure kicking cows. Like balky horses, kicking cows are usually made so by the men who handle them. The best device we have ever seen is to put a ring in the floor overhead and with a halter on the cow draw her head up pretty taut. She can not kick very well in this position, and the beauty of it is she does not know what it is that prevents her, as she soon comes to know if a strap is buckled about her legs."

STOCK TAKING COLD.

The horse is very susceptible to cold; and the horses that are stalled when not being worked or exercised feel the changes of weather quite as readily as do those enjoying a more free life. All stables should be fairly lofty, because horses need plenty of fresh air, and this can only be properly given during intense cold when ventilation can be given above the heads of the animals, so far as elevation is concerned, the position of the ventilators mattering little so long as they are at a good height and placed with judgment. The stable should feel cosy upon going in, but not stuffy, otherwise the horses will feel chilly upon coming out.

When the horses are out at work they need little care, so long as they are actually employed, but if being rested, or doing duty that involves periods of inaction, it then becomes necessary to see that there is no chance given for a chill to be caught. If to stand for several minutes, as when a wagon is being loaded, a loin-cloth, or sheet, should be thrown across the back and removed when actual work recommences and the same plan should be followed until the cold breaks.

CARE OF BROOD MARES.

Unless it is stormy, the brood mares and all horses and colts that are not at work, should be turned into a good-sized yard every day during the winter. Care should be exercised to see that there is no ice in the yard, as the animals are likely to slip and injure themselves. In the spring, the brood mares and other horses that have been idling during the winter should not be worked hard at first. Give them light work until they become accustomed to it. More work can be accomplished and your animals will be in better condition for the summer work if this system is followed. June is the best month to have the colts come in, at that time all the sprin work will be finished and the mare can be given the attention she requires.

An exchange truthfully says: "If you want to ruin your boy just take his side on every question and dispute he has with his teacher or your neighbor's children. Just let him know you are with him right or wrong in all his disputes. This will give him a good start in the downward path."

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness. Ely's Cream Balm cures, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying, does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Drugists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.

Peculiar Words.

The air is full of the spelling reform initiated by President Roosevelt, and on the whole the notion has not been well received. At the same time we would point out that many of the words accepted as purest English have in the course of time been very harshly dealt with.

A walnut is indeed a nut, but it does not grow on a wall and never did; the walnut is the wealth or foreign nut, the first part of the word appearing also in "Wales," and at the other end of Europe in "Wallachia;" but wealth became meaningless, and we manufactured a new meaning that does not correspond with the facts. A pickax has something to do with "pick," but nothing to do with "ax;" it is the French word "piccois" transmuted into a new shape. A causeway has no connection with either "cause" or "way," it is just the French word "chausse" (drilled) or high road, mispronounced so as to give it a new English tail. Wormwood has nothing to do with either "worm" or "wood," but it is the German word "wermuth" or warmth. A country dance is only rustic in its verbal setting; originally it was a courtly dance where the parties faced each other.

Troy weight, which puzzles youngsters, has nothing to do with the town of Troy, but comes from the French "trotre," which is our word "authority" in another form, and Troy weight is only the authorized weight. The Jerusalem artichoke is a sunflower, and not an artichoke at all, though it is so called from a somewhat similar flavor; and it has no connection with the sacred city, but the first part is a corruption of the Italian "girasole," which means that it turns its flowers to the sun.

Proverbs have suffered from the same ineradicable tendency of the human mind. "Nine tailors make a man" was originally no libel on the sartorial artist; but in the form of "Nine tailors make a man" it furnished a practical rule for those whose melancholy office it was to toll for the dead, and who were required to ring a peal of nine strokes for a man, six for a woman and three for a child. A hand saw is the last article which one seems liable to confuse with a hawk, yet an old proverb lands the man who can "tell a hawk from a hand saw," but here the hand saw was originally the heronshaw, or young heron, which the hawk resembled.

A similar desire to give a meaning to what had become meaningless is responsible for the famous story of Whittington and his cat. He did make a fortune by cats, but not by sending them to eaters' pots which were infested by mice. A cat was originally a barge, and the commercial part of Plymouth Sound is still known as the Catwater.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for elixirs, free.

Feudist Foiled "Judge Lynch."

Topeka, Kan., October 4, 1906.—The recent draught of Elias Hatfield, closed for all time one of the many cases in which citizens of various communities have tried to take the law into their own hands and administer the Biblical injunction, "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, a life for a life." Once before in this notorious man's life he figured as the leading character in an attempt on the part of the citizens of Cabell county, W. Va., to rid themselves of his presence, but the affair had an abrupt termination without the accomplishment of the object.

Hatfield's neck was saved by the oversight of Sheriff W. O. Walton, of Cabell county, and the reputation of his prisoner as a desperate man. It was a case in which there were no battering rams used, no angry howls from the mob flaunting in the face of the prisoner, and no shots fired. Through the door of the jail the crowd glanced once within and immediately withdrew.

Immediately after the shooting of H. E. Ellis on June 1, 1899, Elias Hatfield, fearing the violence that he knew would break out on all sides, took to the mountains in Mingo county and remained in hiding until his voluntary surrender to Governor Atkinson a few weeks later. This took place in a secluded spot in the wilderness of the mountain regions, the Governor personally placing Hatfield under arrest. As a man the officials placed great confidence in Hatfield, and with a small escort, designed to attract as little attention as possible, he was hurried at once to the jail in Cabell county.

Although the incident took place within a few hours and Hatfield was safely landed in a strong county jail some miles from that in which lived the friends of the murdered man, became generally known in a few hours. Talk of mob violence at once arose, and a day or so later Sheriff Walton received an unsigned message stating that a "necktie" party would be held that night.

The Sheriff, however, was not a man to be influenced by the crude ethics of the rougher element of Mingo county or any other county. There was little time left him for official action, although the militia could have been hurried to the scene soon enough to prevent the capture of the prisoner. As a precaution, however, he secured two revolvers and a rifle and took them to a cell facing the main corridor of the jail. Then going to Hatfield's cell he fully explained the danger that threatened.

Hatfield took the matter quietly, but said he would like to have a chance for his life at least.

"You shall have it," the Sheriff told him as he unlocked his door and led him to the other cell. Then motioning him inside he added: "We are soon to be in a tight place. Elias, you know these people, and unless I am mistaken they know you. Therefore I am giving you what I think best in my power, the chance you want. In return I want your word that not a shot shall be fired unless it is absolutely necessary." And the word was given.

That evening there was an unusual silence about the town; so unusual, in fact, that it was a bit ominous. And one could easily have seen that men were gathering in a large crowd at a point several blocks away from the jail, with a determination about their movements that gave an indication of something about to happen. Ver in the jail one guard sat near Hatfield's cell and quietly talked with its occupant, while Sheriff Walton sat in his office half reading, half expectant and ready to act on the slightest provocation. Eight o'clock came and went with no signs of trouble. They had almost begun to thing the affair had been abandoned when the stillness was broken by the sound of many feet and the hoarse murmur of gruff voices outside.

A loud knock brought Sheriff Walton to his feet. "Who is it?" he asked, slowly unlocking the door of the main corridor. "What do you want?"

"We represent the citizens of Mingo and Cabell counties, sir," came the reply. "We want that prisoner."

The Sheriff smiled at the angry faces before him. "I hope, gentlemen, you will fully appreciate the situation before you make an attempt to take him. I believe you understand what I have done. This court's decision is clear, but I doubt if any man can reach the prisoner under the present circumstances."

He looked and passed on, and in a few minutes the mob had disappeared. No one in that crowd was willing to face the steady hand and sure aim of Elias Hatfield.

$150, payable $20 down and $10 per month. Or $140 spot Cash.

The lots are centrally located and "dirt cheap" at the prices. Apply at once and get choice.

Louisa is improving rapidly and property will certainly continue to increase in value right along. Now is the time to buy. Demand for houses is much greater than the supply. Rent houses built on these lots would pay big returns on the investment.

Kentucky Normal College is bringing many people to Louisa. Next year will see a large increase in population. Louisa has a location of great natural advantage. It is healthful and moral, has access to two railroads and slackwater navigation, natural gas, water works, and all modern facilities. Its citizens have awakened to the advantages possessed by the town and are going after desirable enterprises. This means growth and development. Prices of real estate will gradually rise under such conditions. Now is the time to buy.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

The second edition of the Carter Circuit Court convened at Olive Hill Wednesday, with a very large crowd in attendance.

Owingsville, Ky., Nov. 8.—Cleveland Pergam, charged with murdering Thomas Jones ten days ago, was held without bail, after an examining trial here.

Either Fred or Ed Porter, of Grayson, ran a nail in his foot and is badly crippled. These boys are twins and it is beyond our comprehension to correctly distinguish them.

Lee Cyrus, who was shot at Round Bottom ten or twelve days ago, by John Large and who was in a dangerous condition for several days, is now improving and it is thought he will get well.

Grayson, Ky., November 8.—John Tackett, of Willard, was lodged in jail here today charged with the killing of John Rinehart with a shotgun. Tackett was quarreling with another man, and claims his gun was accidentally discharged, the load hitting John Rinehart, a bystander.

Olive Hill Milling Co. has been incorporated with $1,000 capital stock to manufacture all kinds of feed stuffs. A two-story building 24x100 feet will be erected. Claude L. Wilson is president; J. E. Wallace, vice-president, and G. L. Brauner, secretary-treasurer and engineer in charge.

Shady W. Grace, postmaster at Verea, Greenup county, Ky., who was arrested and brought to Catlettsburg, on Oct. 30 by Deputy Marshall T. S. Sayers, on the charge of making false entries in the post-office records, was given a hearing before Commissioner Tinsley and bound over to answer to the next federal grand jury which will meet in December. He failed to furnish bond and was sent to jail.

Fifteen men employed in the construction of a coffer dam below the lock at the foot of Webster street in Catlettsburg, went on a strike at noon to-day, for an increase in pay and the use of rubber boots while at work.

The men have been receiving $1.75 per day and their demand is $2.00 with rubber boots furnished.

Superintendent Courly says the demand of the men will not be granted, but that an effort will be made to fill their places with other workmen.

Graham College has entered the third month of the present session with probably the brightest prospects in its history. J. B. McClure, the Principal, has more than proved his ability as a school man. Having stuck to the college through some of the most trying times in its history he has tided it over financial difficulties, and has now about succeeded in placing it on a paying basis, something which can be said of very few schools of this kind.

The college buildings and grounds are soon to be put to sale, and it is to be hoped that the purchasers will properly recognize Pro. McClure for the manner in which he has held the school together. — Graham, Va. Banner.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Nov. 8.—Reports have reached this city of disastrous forest fires which have been raging in Morgan county during the last week. The dry weather has caused the timber to burn rapidly, and the fire has swept everything before it.

The fire is creeping near the large Cannel City coal mines of Bigstaff and Cockrell, and all the cabins and buildings are in danger of being destroyed. Hundreds of panels of fence have been burned and much valuable timber. The loss will reach thousands of dollars, and there is no telling what the result will be if rain does not come in a short time or the people cannot check the onward rush of the fire.

PUBLIC SALE OF LAND.

If you want a nice country home at your own price don't forget that J. C. Scobee will sell to highest bidder on court day at Winchester, Nov. 26th, one of the most productive farms in Clark county, 400 acres in two tracts adjoining, both highly improved. Sale at court house at one o'clock. For description write him.

WANTED FOR U. S. ARMY:—Able bodied unmarried men between ages of 21 and 35; citizens of United States, of good character and temperate habits, who can speak, read and write English. For information apply to Recruiting Officer, Main Street, Louisa, Ky.

FALLSBURG.

Nothing unusual occurred here lately, except that Zackary Webb's house caught fire one day last week and came very near being destroyed. Mr. Webb and his neighbors threw water quick and fast and the house was saved.

We had a very peaceable election here and I don't think there was any whisky used at this election to influence voters.

Mrs. Webb returned home last Thursday from East Liverpool, after having been gone several days to see her daughter, who has been sick for sometime, but was about well when Mrs. Webb left.

I stated not long ago that Blind Burch Blankenship had bought a house and lot in Fallsburg and was going to move here, but I have learned since it was a mistake.

Thomas Burchett took quite a lot of cattle through here last week and George Skeens lost a cow that he thinks went off with the drove.

There is not anyone sick in Fallsburg, but Dr. Rice has had several calls to visit patients out in the surrounding country.

Mrs. Evans, known as grandma Evans, died on the 12th. She was buried near her home in the family grave yard. Rev. Cassidy preached at her funeral.

An infant child of Bob Skeens' died on the 13th.

MEN PAST SIXTY IN DANGER

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, of Rock Port, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure, I feel better than I have for twenty years although I am now 91 years old." Sold by Louisa Drug Co.

THE IDEAL FAMILY LAXATIVE.

is one that can be used by the entire family young and old, weak and strong, without any danger of harmful effects.

It should have properties which insure the same dose, alway having the same effect, otherwise the quantity will have to be increased and finally lose its effect altogether.

These properties can be found in that old family remedy, Brandreth's Pills, because its ingredients are of the purest herbal extracts, and every pill is kept for three years before being sold, which allows them to mellow. We do not believe there is a laxative on the market that is so carefully made.

Brandreth's Pills are the same fine laxative tonic pill your grandparents used. They have been in use for over a century and are sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar-coated.

WILTON.

Misses Nora and Susie Hardwick called on friends on Tug Sunday.

Miss Nizelle Miller visited at Oliver Hardwick's Monday.

Miss Ida Wilson, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Dave See, on Tug returned home Monday.

Miss Dixie Sisemore, from Thackerville, W. Va., is visiting her cousin, Miss Susie Hardwick this week.

Jim Hardwick visited friends last week.

Miss Pauline Copley from Tug, is visiting friends on Lick creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hardwick visited in Ashland Friday night.

The box super given at this lace Saturday night was a grand success.

Miss Ida Wilson gave a birthday party Monday night and received many nice presents.

Church at this place Saturday night and Sunday.

Misses Ida Wilson, Pauline Copley and Susie and Nora Hardwick spent Monday with Mrs. Nora MacLean.

J. Mont Bevins vs. J. A. Casar and Sons. — Filed October 10, 1906.

—Not to be reported.—Appeal to Pike Circuit Court. Opinion of the Court by Judge Barker, affirming the trial court.

—Fraud. —Mechanics sale of goods—absence of buyer—Great Gross instead of Gross—Rule—Absence of fraud.

Where a merchant orders a gross instead of the quantity to be delivered within ninety days, and the same is delivered to the shipping point agrees on when the time named, he cannot be relieved from the payment for the full amount ordered on the ground that he was only ordering a gross instead of a great gross of each, where there is no evidence that the seller was guilty of any fraud or sharp practice in obtaining the order or knowingly took advantage of the mistake of the buyer.

Second—Mistake—Negligent.

One Must Suffer. The rule is elementary that where one of two innocent parties must suffer because of a mistake, if it has resulted from the negligence of one of them, he must bear the consequences.

Third—Acceptance of Order—Cancellation—Consent.

After one has accepted an order for goods sold to him he cannot cancel it by letter without consent of the seller.

N. J. Auxier, E. D. Stephenson, F. W. Stowers, for appellant; Elmerman and Auxier for appellee.

George L. Cox vs. H. E. Burgess. — Filed October 11, 1906.—Not to be reported.—Appeal from Pike Circuit Court. Opinion of the Court by Judge O'Rear, affirming.

First—Contracts—Sale of Land—Specific Enforcement—Enhanced Value of Land.

A contract in writing in which C. agreed with B. to sell and convey his land at the end of four years at fifty cents per acre, reserving
